If you want to use just two strands, select two from the end of the thread and gently pull them away together to separate them. For example, instead of merely adding black to create tones, you may choose to deepen the tones with darker shades of the same color or using a complimentary color. Thinking Beyond the Color Wheel While the use of the color wheel helps you determine which colors go the best together, these are also often thought of preset color schemes. You'll see the color that matches the code appear, as well as an extensive selection of additional DMC floss colors that complement the searched color code. DMC Floss in a Project If you buy a complete needlepoint or cross stitch project, the DMC floss needed to complete the work will be included in the kit. You'll also learn about split-complimentary colors, which are the two colors flanking the sides of the complementary color. For example, if you're working on a painting and would like to know what colors go together, color charts are an excellent resource. Separate the colors and thread them into the holes according to their color code so you can find them when you need them. Tips for Using the Floss Take your skein of floss and find the tail end. The use of online color charts is an excellent way to achieve these goals. DMC floss is actually six-strand floss, which means that each thread contains six separate strands. These charts show you a myriad of information that's beneficial to art projects including primary colors, secondary colors and tertiary colors. Use the color chart to plan a needlepoint project. When picking colors, try using different art movements or historical periods as inspiration for color to help guide your art project. If you like to embroider or do cross stitch, chances are that you use DMC floss in your projects. Are you a novice artist in need of extra color theory practice? Here are guidelines for online color charts to use in your next art project. The Benefits of Using Colors Charts Using a color chart is beneficial for much more than painting projects. Many kits have DMC floss color cards with holes that are labeled for each color. Using a color chart is just the beginning when creating color inspiration. Creating Color Tones Otherwise referred to as saturation, creating tones in your art projects helps add drama, shading and effects. We can pair colors with elements of nature, temperatures, mood, saturation, themes and a myriad of other qualities. In addition to these colors, there are also various hues associated with them as well. How to Use Color Charts Using color charts depends on the art project on which you're working. You could also find a printable DMC floss chart to print out and use as you work. They'll provide information regarding complimentary colors, which are those that are opposites on the color wheel. For those who are looking for an eye-catching color scheme, look for tetradic, double-complementary combinations. Therefore, when creating your art project, it's a good idea to think beyond the wheel and look at colors that create dramatic effects. What about developing a piece of art using contrasting colors that mix with triadic colors? Using the color wheel enables you to determine which colors will benefit the most from using color tones, and the dramatic effects of shading on your art project. Those who are working on mixed media art projects, using markers, pastels, colored pencils or any other color media benefit from the use of a color chart for mixing colors. In fact, DMC floss comes in 489 different colors, so there's a vast array of different color options as you work on needlework projects. Do you have experience and need inspiration or skills brush-up? Then, there are triadic colors, which are any three colors that are on the color wheel and evenly spaced out. Do you want a monochromatic look? You can use the full thread for a project, or you can separate the strands to use one, two or more together. If the thread tangles as you separate, stop and loosen the strands and then continue separating.
